HENRICO SCHOOLS AT JAMESTOWN

Public Schools of the County Will Be in Evidence at Exposition.

The School Board of Virginia District, Henrico county, met yesterday at the courthouse for the consideration of a number of matters relating to the welfare of the district schools. The rebuilding of the schoolhouse at Laurel Hill, which was burned to the ground a few days since, was one of the matters taken up, and Dr. Blanton, of the board, was appointed to look into the question of cost and location. It is probable that steps will be taken to replace this building, that it may be ready in time for the opening of the fall session.

Clerk of the Henrico Schools, Jackson Davis, has in his office a considerable portion of the exhibition the county schools will make at Jamestown. The collection of this material is progressing satisfactorily, and the written portions will be tastefully bound or mounted in suitable display-form.

The committee of the county board on the exhibition are busy assorting the material submitted by the different schools, and the county is now assured of having a most creditable showing of its school work at the exposition.

Among the features of the work already in hand are a number of illustrated compositions, tastefully gotten up, among others the "Battle of Seven Pines," the text being illustrated by several very creditable water-color sketches, and submitted by a pupil of Virginia District.

Other compositions similarly gotten up, and tastefully illustrated are on Poe's "Bells" and on Lanier's poems.

One of the most striking exhibits will be a "Products Map" of the United States, submitted by the pupils of the Barton Heights public school. This map, which is several feet in length, and is mounted on cardboard, with mountain ranges, rivers and depressions properly marked. The principal products of each locality are illustrated by small portions stuck into the map, before the map became hardened. In this way, coal, lumber, rice, corn, wheat, cotton, oranges and mineral products are graphically illustrated, a grain of corn, or a small piece of coal or a scrap of metal illustrating the productions of each locality.

CASE AGAINST FAIRBANKS IS DISMISSED BY JUDGE

STEUBENVILLE, OHIO, March 15.—The indictment against Frederick Fairbanks, son of Vice-President Fairbanks, accusing him of swearing falsely to obtain a license on which he was recently married, was dismissed by Judge Richards. The case is considered closed.

Eyes and Their Relation to Health

By Drs. Rudd & Buchanan, Neurologists.

Impingement or waste of nerve energy, the cause of 85 per cent. of all chronic ills, is a conclusion which is not the work of specialists alone, but is concurred in by all wide-awake physicians the world over. The eyes are the only organs of the body able to and that involuntarily overcome their own deficiencies by an extra demand upon the nerve supply; hence they are the most prolific source of nerve waste. Perfect vision does not necessarily mean perfect eyes. There is a certain class of defective eyes in which vision is often better than normal, though it seems hard to convince the average mind that such could be possible.

Look at this drawing, which shows the lower half of a defective right eye. It is the function of the perfect eye to see at a distance without any strain upon any part of its refractive media; in other words, rays of light from distant objects should come to a perfect focus upon the retina, thus forming the image of the object looked at with the eyes in a state of perfect rest.

In the drawing we have before us the refractive media (the cornea and lens) are too weak or the eye is too short; the rays of light do not come to a focus upon the retina while the eye is in a state of rest, but at a point far behind. This is the most common of all eye defects commonly known as "far-sightedness." But Nature realized the necessity of eyesight, and in her all-wise and governing wisdom gave the eyes a faculty of accommodation, so that a defective eye will usually perform its function perfectly, although such is accomplished at a tremendous strain upon the nervous system. By using the mechanical arrangement provided around the lens, it can change the curvatures of the crystalline lens so that rays of light will be as shown by dotted lines, thus increasing the power of its refractive media, and this increase of power forces the rays of light to follow the dotted lines from the lens to the posterior pole of the eye, thus forming the image upon the retina as if the eye were perfect. Such eyes often see better than normal, because the focusing or refractive media have to be so much more powerful than it should be; hence the vision is more acute. But this strain or effort being required constantly during every hour the eyes are awake, means an enormous drain on the nerve supply in the cerebellum, and not only affects the eyes, but the extra current of nerve force cannot be turned on for the eyes without turning on the same voltage or impedance (we use electrical terms) to all other departments of the body. And as similar functions in other departments are more easily affected if one of them is irritated, the spinster systems throughout the body become involved directly, and the nerves which operate the stomach, intestines, anus, uterus, and other apparatus, weary their work, while the eyes accomplish the object they undertook, namely, vision. They may feel all right, while the other departments are having all kinds of trouble.

Just such defective eyes are the primary cause of a large majority of all chronic nervous ills. We remove the cause; Nature does the rest.

More than ten thousand successful cases on record.

FRATERNITY HAS ANNUAL REUNION

Banquet of Phi Delta Theta Club Held at Commonwealth Club.

EVENING WAS MUCH ENJOYED

Doctors and Lawyers Reveal Secrets on Each Other. Election of Officers.

The Phi Delta Theta Club, of Richmond, enthusiastically celebrated Alumni Day on Friday night by an annual reunion and dinner at the Commonwealth Club. After doing full justice to the attractive menu, those assembled were further entertained by the appointed speakers of the evening, led gracefully forth by President Robert L. Powers as toastmaster.

Mr. Alex. H. Sands, Jr., began the fun with his "Glibber from the Lawyers," which was replied to by Dr. Clifton M. Miller with his "Cuts from the Doctors," who was immediately followed by Mr. George Bryan with a brilliant testimony in defense of the law as a career of romance and glory, during which those present were told of the experience of a young (?) lawyer first appearing before the Supreme Court and the passionate eloquence wasted upon the sleeping justices, were given the first authentic definition of "brainstorm," and learned that Lawyer Smith received eighty per cent. of the doctor's bills for advising him to give Lawyer Jones twenty per cent. for collecting.

The other speakers of the evening were Mr. Roy B. Cabell, on the topic, "In What Ways Phi Delta Theta Is Advancing?" Mr. John P. Lea, on "Our Chapter House Proposition," Mr. W. C. Curry, on "The University of Virginia," on the same subject, and Dr. Greer Baughman, on "The National Convention at Washington," from whom it was learned that the Phi Delta Theta fraternity had placed itself on record endorsing and had expressed its determination to work for the adoption of the "honor system" in all those colleges where they were represented by active chapters.

This was especially gratifying to the graduates of the University of Virginia present, the pioneer university and the exemplifier of this system.

The following gentlemen are members of the Phi Delta Theta Club of Richmond, the majority of whom were present at the annual dinner: Messrs. Albert B. Akop, A. J. Battle, Adolphus Blair, Jr., Percy S. Boshier, George Bryan, Roy B. Cabell, B. Pollard Cardozo, W. A. Curry, John Curry, L. R. Curry, James W. Gordon, Bernard B. Guest, J. J. Hickey, J. A. Lancaster, John P. Lea, J. W. Marshall, Frank W. Minor, W. M. Morton, Preston W. Noland, William H. Parrish, A. W. Patterson, M. C. Patterson, A. I. Pleasant, George C. Powers, Robert L. Powers, Conway H. Sands, Alex. H. Sands, Jr., R. B. Scott, W. C. Shepard, C. P. Stearns, C. W. Tanner, Robert S. Taylor, D. W. Thayer, E. P. Valentine, G. G. Valentine, Harry L. Watson, S. M. Wilson, W. F. Wilson, Dr. Greer Baughman, Robert S. Boshier, Matt O. Burke, William S. Gordon, E. C. McSparran, Clifton M. Miller, M. Pierce Rucker, Francis W. Uphar and Roy Thomas McN. Simpson.

After the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted in the selection of Dr. Greer Baughman as president, and Mr. Charles P. Stearns as secretary, and after those present had congratulated Dr. Greer Baughman and Dr. Francis W. Uphar, the committee, upon the success of the twenty-eighth annual dinner, adjournment was in order, each man leaving with a stronger loyalty to the Phi Delta Theta and a better understanding of the spirit of fraternity life.

BIG ROLLER RINK AT GAY WOOD

Martinetti and Sylvester, Acrobats and Comedians, Engaged for One Week Only.

THRILLING AND DARING ACTS

Moving Pictures That Make Fun for Everybody—Attractive Bill Whole Week.

As the attraction for the big roller rink at Idlewood all this week, the management has secured an amusement feature that stands in a class by itself—the famous European acrobats, Martinetti and Sylvester, in their wonderful eccentric comedy acrobatic act, which is heralded as the crowning feature of such exhibitions, and has been the headliner wherever shown.

Martinetti and Sylvester are under contract to cover the Keith circuit of theatres at a handsome salary, and it was only after several days of communication that they could be induced to come to Richmond for a week's stay. Friday night will see the usual racing numbers added to the program, and Manager Myers has been in communication with Harry Davidson, the crack southern skater, now at Memphis, with a view of securing him for a series of races in Richmond. Davidson is a wonder, being in the class with Cookson, the world's champion one-mile skater, and if he can be secured, will give Brent some interesting contests. Earl Sanford, another fast fifteen-year-old skater, who made a mile in 2:56 last week in Memphis, has been made an offer to come here, and will be secured if it can possibly be done.
